EMPLOYES REVEAL CORRUPT DEALS IN TEAPOT DOME CASE

Criminal Prosecution May Follow Revelations Of Sinclair Men.

ROOSEVELT AND WALBERG RESIGN

Naval Oil Reserve Lease To Fall May Involve Many Persons.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The lid was blown off Teapot Dome today.

Criminal prosecution of some of the persons involved in the leasing of the great naval oil reserve by ex-Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall to Harry F. Sinclair was declared to be probable as a result of the startling revelations made to the senate public lands committee by Archie Roosevelt, son of the late president, and G. D. Walberg, both of whom have resigned from Sinclair's employe because of "suspicions of corruption," in connection with the leases.

For years both Roosevelt and Walberg have been right-hand men of Sinclair. Walberg had access to the business and private check books of the oil man, which he told the senate public lands committee had been hurriedly taken out of the office just before Sinclair sailed for Paris last Wednesday.

The department of justice, given full access to the committee's records, taken in a year's investigation, has launched a probe of its own into the leasing with a view to possible criminal action, it was learned.

Rush L. Holland, assistant attorney general, was in the committee room when Roosevelt and Walberg told their amazing stories that led to their resignations.

Department Investigates

"Of course, the department of justice is investigating," Holland said today. "We shall certainly seek criminal prosecution if evidence sufficient to warrant such action is uncarthed." He admitted that agents of the department were working on the case, but would not say whether this was requested by the committee, and he refused to state whether he considered the present revelations sufficient.

Statements by Roosevelt and Walberg, who was called for additional questioning today, cleared away much of the mystery which has baffled committee members and opened new paths for the committee's probe.

Fall, who repudiated testimony that he had borrowed $100,000 from Edward B. McLean, Washington publisher, to buy a ranch in New Mexico will again be asked by Senator Walsh, Democrat of Montana, directing the inquiry, to appear to explain where he got the money to pay for the ranch and to make extensive improvements on his own ranch. Fall, ill in New Orleans, announced he had cancelled an ocean voyage to wait for the hearings to close.

E. L. Doheny of the Pan-American Petroleum company, which obtained lease to rich naval reserve land in California, is on his way to Washington to testify.

CRABBE OPPOSES GRAND JURY CALL AT STEUBENVILLE

Attorney General Satisfied Conditions There Will Be Improved.

Columbus Jan. 22—Opposing the call of a special grand jury at Steubenville and expressing belief that Jefferson county and Steubenville authorities are doing all they can now to enforce the laws Attorney General Crabbe today submitted to Gov. Donahey a report covering the recent investigation by Sherman Deaton Urbana, special representative of the attorney general at Steubenville into charges alleging laxity of law enforcement.

"I am satisfied that in the past, a proper effort has not been made to enforce the law and I believe that a more rigid policy with reference to law enforcement will prevent a repetition of such crimes as have been investigated," the attorney general said..

"After reviewing conditions fully, Mr. Deaton is of the opinion that a special grand jury investigation would be of no avail, that its only purpose would be to attempt to secure indictments against persons charged with crime and that as there is no evidence that will warrant an indictment the convening of a special grand jury would be an unwarranted waste of money and would accomplish nothing. I am in accord with the conclusions and recommendations of Mr. Deaton."

Sure of Improvement

After briefly touching upon the incidens leading up to the accusations of lax enforcement in Jefferson county, Crabbe said:

"Being interested in the future of Steubenville, we have tried to bring about a better understanding on the part of public officials as to the importance of strict enforcement of the law and we are satisfied that there has been a marked improvement in the city of Steubenville, with reference to gambling and the unlawful traffic in intoxicating liquors, and I am of the opinion that under the presen tadministration conditions will continue to improve.

"I am satisfied that the leading business and professional men of Steubenville are willing to cooperate with the officials to the end that any future investigation may be made unnecessary."

Crabbe pointed out that one-half of Steubenville's 34,000 inhabitants are foreigners,. that 32 nationalities are represented and that, therefore, "it is more difficult to enforce the law to the letter under such conditions, than in many parts of Ohio. Much more is therefore, required on the part of public officials."

J. Ramsay MacDLonald, Labor Leader, Designated As Premier.

STRIKE SITUATION IS BIG PROBLEM

New Premier Declares He Will Direct Efforts At Solution.

London, Jan. 22—Premier Stanley Baldwin, chief of the Tory government of Great Britain for nearly eight months, resigned today after the house of commons had adopted a resolution last night expressing lack of confidence in his cabinet.

The Labor party was summoned into power for the first time in English history.

After Baldwin had visited Buckingham palace where he tendered the resignation of his government, J. Ramsay MacDonad, leader of the Labor party and chief of the opposition in the house of commons, was invited to the palace to receive the designation of premier.

MacDonald readily accepted the post knowing in advance that the honor would be his.

Labor comes into power at a time when the entire nation is torn with labor strife, the railway locomotive engineers and firemen and some of the coal miners being on strike.

MacDonald's followers said he would set his face at once toward settling these disputes.

New Premier Presides

Many of the Liberals voted for the Laborite resolution of "no confidence," the result being 238 in favor of it and 256 in opposition.

The final meeting of the old cabinet was held this morning just before Baldwin visited the palace to hand in he resignation of himself and his colleagues.

The house of commons met this afternoon with Premier-Designate MacDonald in power. However, he had not completed the formation of his new Labor government so it was anticipated that adjournment would be taken for a few weeks to enable the Laborites to formulate not only their government but their policies upon home and foreign questions.

Great Britain realizes that the whole world is watching the experiment being made here. While the dominant party is officially denominated Laborites, many of the newspapers call them Socialists.

Premier-Designate MacDonald said he hoped to present his new cabinet to King George tomorrow.

It was understood that Lord Haldane has denitely accepted the post ot lord chancellor.

Lord Parmoor will become president of the council a post formerly held by Earl Balfour.

Philip Snowden is expected to accept the post of chancellor of the exchequer.

Arthur Henderson is slated for home secretary.

Annual Meeting For Red Cross Members

SANITARY PLANT MAKING PROGRESS

Orders For Bathtubs And Other Enameled Ware Keeping Salem Plant Busy; Expect Greater Sales In 1924.

By H. P. BRAMAN

Take a good look at your bathtub next Saturday night. Try to find the trademark, and see if the tub is not a Salem product.

There is a certain enterprising industrial plant in Salem that is one of the leaders in the enamel ware game. Not that it is the largest plant, because there are plenty larger, but it is a substantial concern that is part of the backbone and sinew of the Salem industrial world. That plant is that of the the National Sanitary Co., a wide awake company at the foot of Depot st.
pany atthe foot of Depot st.

Back in 1914 a group of capitalists purcased the National Sanitary Manufacturing Co. and announced that they were going to give Salem a real enamel plant that it could be proud of. Those men have kept their word.

Today the National Sanitary Co. with three plants, one here where the main offices are located, and two vitreous china potteries at Fredericksburg, O., and Clarksburg, W. Va., is recognized as one of the leaders in the enamel field, and is one of Salem's largest industries.

Pioneer In Charge

The history of the Salem plant is this. In 1914 the company was purchased and renamed. For several years business increased and in 1920 the two other plants were purchased. In May, 1922 Charles G. Burton of Trenton N. J., a pioneer in the enamel ware field with 50 years experience, took charge of the company as secretary and treasurer, and since then the corporation has been going full tilt, with the order books full all the time.

Last year the total sales for the Salem plant, the main one amounted to $850,000. and the sales of the other plants brought the total up to

SENATE PROBERS GIVEN CHANCE TO PICK PEACE PLAN

Bok Agrees To Pay Winner Same Sum He Offered For First Plan.

Washington, Jan. 22—Edward W. Bok originator and promoter of the $100,000 peace plan project, came back at his senatorial inquistors today with a startling offer.

In a letter to Senator Moses, Republican of New Hampshire, Bok offered to turn over to the senate investigating committee all of the 22,164 peace plans submitted in the contest, and allow the senators to select the plan which they believed to be the best.

And Bok agreed to pay to the winner they selected the sum of $100,000—the same amount he offered for the previous plan.

"I will also agree to defray the expenses of a nation-wide referendum, if desired, and in all respects give the plan which your committee selects the same financial support accorded by me to the present plan," said Bok.

Bok's sensational offer was contained in a letter in which he defended his refusal to tell the senatorial committee how much money he was spending to circularize and promote his peace plan project.

"I do not know definitely the amount spent or to be spent in the conduct of the award" said Bok. You must realize that, as a matter of ordinary good taste, I ought not to be placed in the position of discussing the amount of money I am spending in a service I have undertaken on behalf of the American people.

"I am strengthened in my belief that you have no right to enter into my peronal affairs. However, if you still differ with me on this point, and if the law gives you the right which you claim, there is no reason why you should not seek this from those who can give you the definite information which I do not possess.

"Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., is treasurer of the award, and the Girard Trust company of Philadelphia, is the custodian of the fund at their disposal for the purpose of the award.."

Men And Woman Face Direct Charge Of Administering Dope To Girls.

TRIAL IN MAYOR'S COURT WEDNESDAY

Girls Swear In Affidavits They Got Dope In Cigarets And Candy.

Three persons, charged with administering and furnishing coacine and opium, and other narcotics to Mary Leininger and Elizabeth Trinkley on Jan. 10 and 11, were released Tuesday morning on bonds of $1000 for their appearance at 10 a. m. Wednesday when they will face prosecution by City Solicitor L. B. Harris in Mayor J. B. Schaeffer's court, the result of raids Monday afternoon that have broken up an alleged city-wide dope ring.

George Foundos, proprietor of the Crystal restaurant, Main and Chestnut sts.; Steve Chukalas, employe of the Ohio restaurant, and Mrs. Alice McAllister, who conducts a rooming house at 103½ Main st., are the ones put on bond.

Immediately after the preliminary hearing Monday afternoon Mrs. McAllister was released when her husband, Frank, signed her bond.

Tuesday morning Attorney K. L. Coburn, representing Chukalas, alias Steve Slogan, alias Shrimp Slogan and Foundas, obtained their release on $1,000 bond, the mayor reduct the bail from $5,000. The bonds were signed by Nick Triffon proprietor of the Ohio restaurant.

Shortly after noon Monday Chief of Poilce T. W. Thompson sent out four squads of city police, firemen, special officers and state inspectors in one of the most spectacular raids for dope ever conducted here.

Suspects Released

Simultaneously four squads raided the Crystal and Ohio restaurants, Mrs. McAllister's place, and the Salem shoe repair stop at 107 Main st. These persons were arrested on suspicion so that the officers could search the different places for dope:

Nick Triffon, proprietor, Ohio restaurant.

Nick Anastasa, part proprietor, Ohio.

George Spanos, Alex Feleoz and Dr. Nana Yates, Crystal restaurant.

Gust Stamos, shoe repair.

Spiros Stravroponk, roomer at McAllisters.

These persons were merely held for several hours until the officers thoroughly searched the places suspected as having narcotics hidden somewhere on the premises. Later all were released, the ones against whom charges were filed, and who were put behind the bars, being the only ones kept under guard.

Dope Confiscated

A large quantity of what is said to be dope in various forms was found, and confiscated. In the Crystal second floor, the smell of dope was strong, but none could be found. It is thought that someone had been smoking opium in the room

At McAllister's everything was searched but only a small amount of candy was found that is alleged to have contained a drug.

The Salem Shoe repair shop was a fruitless search, nothing being found.

The Ohio search revealed nothing, either and the proprietors claim that they knew nothing of their employe's actions.

Several weeks ago city police got wind of a transfer of narcotics from a "traveling salesman" to a certain place on Main st. A woman is supposed to be the go-between, and she is said to reside in Canton. She came to Salem and disposed of the narcotics which included powdered opium, and cocaine.

Girls Tell Story

Several buyers are said to have got dope at the four places raided. Among those who became familiar with the places were Miss Leininger and Miss Trinkley. They claim that once they visited at McAllister's and Mrs. McAllister gave them some candy.

In a short time the two girls lost track of what they did, and they do not know what happened afterwards until they woke up in a room.

At another time in the Ohio Steve Chukalas is said to have administered the dope to the girls in a different manner, and blew some "white powder" in their faces, rendering them dazed.

Foundas is said by the girls to have also administered the dope to them, and also sold it to others. The two girls both swore to affidavits that led to the arrest of the men, and to the two girls the police give the credit of the tipoff.

In the raids yesterday the following articles, named by the girls in their charge weres found:

What Officers Found

Two cartons of cigarets, doped with what is thought to be cocaine. Seized at the Crystal.

A box of candy and nuts, alleged to be filled with some drug, found at [illegible]

A box of what may be dope was

Justices Of The Peace

A COMMITTEE of the State Bar association has under consideration a plan to abolish all municipal courts that have been established in the cities, and all justice of the peace courts in the country, and substitute for them a new plan of county courts applicable all over the state for use in the city, the village and the country. The plan may be submitted to the bar association, which meets in Columbus this week.

The details of the plans for the new court have not been given to the public but, whatever they may be, it is probable they will meet with a stout protest. Municipal courts have their friends and supporters, because in many places, where they have been in competent hands, they have brought material improvement over previous conditions. The justice of the peace is not without friends. The justice may be unpopular in and about the large cities, deservedly unpopular, but in the rural sections of the state the justice is in high favor.

The justice of the peace courts could be abolished only by an amendment to the constitution. Efforts to abolish these courts were made in the constitutional convention a dozen years ago and ended in failure. Men from the small counties would not consent to the change. They were willing to admit that the justice of the peace in many cities had become a reproach, the cities could eliminate him or do whatsoever else they might wish but the country would cling to the justice of the peace, the people's court, in which they had full confidence. The sentiment these delegates reflected would be in evidence at the ballot box in a constitutional amendment election.

In many counties in the state one may find justices who have been holding their office for one, two, even three decades, popular with the voters at all times, dispensing evenhanded justice when cases were before them. An effort to abolish them as bad would bring angry protests from the rural sections and these sections are full of voters in this state. In the progress of government, doubtless, it will be possible to bring out a system with advantages over the present municipal court, possibly over the justice of the peace, but the advantages in the new plan will need to be outstanding and convincing to win the people of the small cities and villages and in the country to its support. The country justice in the rural sections enjoys public good will to a degree that many city attorneys do not appreciate.

Can Business Do It?

CAN business men succeed where politicians have failed in entangling Europe's snarled skein? That question may well be asked now as representative financiers, industrial and commercial leaders of the greatest nations gather around the counsel table in Paris to deliberate upon ways and means of saving Germany from utter dissolution. Unquestionably, General Dawes and Mr. Young and their associates have been summoned because the politicians have failed, miserably. And their task is the harder because, under the mishandling by political adventures, bad has gone to worse.

That no considerations of politics will be allowed to sway the international committee is promised by General Dawes. His chief hope of results lies in the fact that "we are practical men, free from political pressure." And then, disclaiming that he speaks for the American government or the American people, he added:

"As an individual, I read in shame and humiliation the outpouring of the American nationalistic demagogues who undertake to lecture Europe in order to lift themselves into some petty office or maintain their political popularity."

The politicians who have played football with Europe's prosperity and the world's hope do not all reside across the Atlantic.

The profound effect that ill-considered and selfish political leadership can have upon the common weal is nowhere more graphically illustrated than in the plight of Europe today. The latest national breakdown, in Germany, may be directly laid to the political blindness of popular leaders both within that country and without. And now that the damage has been done, the politicians sidestep the task of reconstruction and call upon business men to repair the injury. And business men, because they most intimately represent the common welfare and most directly speak for the hunger of multitudes out of work, take up the task with grim determination.

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes anyone so

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.

"I love you," said he.

"Bosh. You never saw me before this dance," said she.

"After the dance is over will you give me a kiss?"

"I don't mind that."

"Marry me, girlie."

"Look here," said the girl, now thoroughly aroused, "you're a fast worker. But if I'm gonna marry you we'll have to be properly introduced."

$1,400,000. As all sales go through the main office here the total is counted for the Salem plant.

About 240 men are now employed at the "Sanitary," as it is known to Salemites. These men are molders, enamelers, and do many other things to turn out the varied line of products.

On June 3, 1922, a disastrous fire visited the plant and it was thought for a time that the sanitary would be a plant of history, and that its employes would have to seek work elsewhere.

But the plant was rebuilt and completed in November, 1922, all the former employes were rehired, and the plant got back to normal. The total payroll, Mr. Burton states, amounts to about $370,000 for the Salem plant, quite a considerable portion of the total city income.

These 240 men make a variety of enameled ware. To go back to the subject of the bathtub, about 135 tubs a day are manufactured here from the raw materials.

The raw pigiron, sand, and enamel are worked together in such a way that the country from coast to coast, the vast territory in which National Sanitary products are sold through jobbers, has around 51,000 tubs a year.

Other Products Made

About 100 tubs a day are made by machines that have almost put the hand finisher out of business. Where one man used to make two or three a day, and several molders still make them by hand at the Sanitary, there are machines that turn out 100 or more with ease. These are all standard five foot tubs, those by hand being odd sizes.

In addition to the bathtub, that necessary and well known enamel product, dozens of other products are made. Here are some:

Lavatories of all sizes, sinks, drain boards, closet tanks, while in the potteries of the plant in the other two towns the closet bowls and some closet tanks are made. Everything for the bathroom in the enamel line is made.

The plant receives a lot of the products of the other two plants and then sells through Salem. But the bulk of the products, these made from iron with porcelain and enamel surfaces, are made here in Salem.

The writer made a tour through the plant, watching the hot molten metal being poured between the sand and patterns, watched the enameling process, and then the crating for shipping. It is as complete a manufacture of a product, and as interesting as anything could be.

At the Clarksburg pottery 125 men turn out the vitreous ware, and at Fredericksburg 100 men do the same work.

Order Books Filled

"We have our order books choked," Secretary Burton states. "In the next four months we will have to run capacity and more, almost. Our plant here, and at the potteries, is working full tilt, and we look for another banner year.

"Last year we enjoyed fine business. Our product is being sold more from coast to coast than it used to be, and we think that this year may eclipse all others in amount of sales."

J. F. Coxon, Wooster, vice president, is acting president due to the resignation of Fred Snyder, Massillon, who has been ill for some time. A new president will be elected at the meeting here in February.

March 3 Limit For Citizenship Tests

March 3 next is he date set for the expiration of the time limit when those of foreign birth who served in the late World war and who desire to become citizens of the United States can obtain naturalization papers without waiting five years, as is ordinarily the case.

After March 3 next, honorably discharged World war veterans will have to comply with the usual requirements for naturalization in the same manner as aliens in ordinary cases.

This is the last warning that will be sounded by Clerk of Courts John T. Burns for World war veterans of foreign birth to secure citizenship papers without following the usual routine.

The next naturalization court in Columbiana county has been set for April 3, a month after the expiration of the act granting ex-service men the right to citizenship papers without waiting five years.

Frank Shelton Heads Springfield Schools

Frank M. Shelton, who was born and reared on a farm south of Salem, has just been elected superintendent of schools at Springfield at a salary of $6,500 a year.

Shelton taught in rural schools before entering college. He was principal of Canton High school several years and then went to Elyria, where he has been superintendent of schools since 1916. His mother, Mrs. David B. Shelton, lives in Canton.

1,000 Dog Licenses Have Been Issued

Use Gas To Execute Slayers In Nevada

Reno, Jan. 22.—Two air-tight death cells were under construction in the Nevada state penitentiary at Carson City today in preparation for the first lethal gas execution in the United States.

Two Chinese, Yee Jon and Ja Sine, convicted of murder, will on Feb. 8 inhale the gas and will pass into oblivion within 10 seconds, according to experts.

Strength of Eggs.

Wonderful provision has been made by nature for the protection of eggs against breakage by building them on the principle of the arch. The fact that no one can break a hen's egg by squeezing it between his hands so long as he applies the pressure in the direction of the long axis of the egg has led to certain experiments with a special apparatus. The eggs were placed point upward on a scale, and pressure was applied by means of a lever and jack. Brown eggs proved stronger than white ones. They broke under a pressure that averaged 155 pounds. White eggs broke under an average pressure of 112.5 pounds. The shells were found to be from .013 to .014 of an inch thick. Since the average diameter of the eggs used was 1¾ inches, some idea can be gained of the strength that the egg owes to its structural form.

AUTOMATIC STORM SIGNALS

Mechanical Device Gives Warning to Electric Light Stations by Ringing a Bell.

The passage of a summer storm cloud over a great city means that there will be a very large demand made upon the electric light stations for increased current, says the Providence Journal. If the power and light generating station was not prepared for this call the industries of the locality would be greatly hampered and the complaints would be overwhelming, so that these situations must be anticipated.

Until recently it has been the custom to keep on the lookout for storms by posting an observer on the top of of the building and upon the approach of a threatening cloud the alarm would be given and the fires under the boilers would be forced, additional generators thrown into service and other preparations made to meet the emergency, and under the old system these preparations entailed considerable work in the way of notifying different departments, some located at some distance, by a rather elaborate system of calling or signaling.

Recently a mechanical means of accomplishing this has been arrived at. A little device near the desk of the superintendent detects the approach of a storm and gives the alarm by ringing a bell, intermittently at first and later more insistently, whereupon the superintendent gets up and going to the other end of the room moves a lever or two and touches a few electric buttons and the whole system has been notified to get ready for a storm.

PLAN TO BLOW OUT DISEASE

British Doctors Will Use Trade Winds Against the Mosquitoes of Samoa.

Pacific trade winds will be used in an attempt literally to blow disease out of the Samoa islands, according to plans of Dr. Patrick A. Buxton, leader of the expedition of the London School of Tropical Medicine, which recently set sail for the South seas. Tuberculosis and other diseases threaten the extinction of the natives of the Samoa group of islands and it is thought their susceptibility may be due to a condition caused by a tiny parasite carried by the Stegomyia mosquito. This mosquito does not seem to be able to exist where the dense undergrowth is cut down. By cutting airways through the dense jungle so that the Pacific trade winds can blow through it, it is hoped that the insects will be blown away. An intensive attack, which will also include substituting modern cisterns for the hollowed coconut storage tanks which furnish breeding places for the mosquitoes, will be made first in one of the small islands of the group. The expedition is expected to be in the tropics for two years.

Modern Quarrying.

The quarries of a Vermont company produce every year more than 1,000,000 cubic feet of stone. In the early days the quarrying proper was done largely by manual and animal labor. At present, four hydro-electric power stations, supplemented by two steam-driven generating stations, when necessary, supply the power to run all the machinery in the quarries. One especially interesting application of electric power is seen in the "gang saws," that saw the giant blocks of marble into slabs of varying thickness. The saws are made of soft iron one-eighth of an inch thick and four inches wide and are toothless. Small pumps deliver a mixture of sand and water to the saw and the sand does the cutting. There are at the quarries more than 300 of these electrically-run gangs which work in groups of from twelve to forty-three.

Ancient Egypt's Tools.

Stone adzes used by Egyptians nearly 5,000 years ago to hew out tombs in soft limestone are almost identical in form with the stone adzes used by Hawaiians to within recent years to cut wood. Dr. Henry S. Washington of the Carnegie institute, who points out this similarity says that it may support the theory that the culture which existed on the Pacific islands and in America before the time of Columbus originated in ancient Egypt about 800 B. C., and was spread westward by sailors. However, he thinks it more probable that the Hawaiians and Egyptians worked out the problem of rough cutting with hard stone in much the same way, but independently.—Science Service.

Fill Sacks From the Bottom.

Cement sacks are tied before they are filled—and filled bottom side up. Each sack has a hole in one of its lower corners that is covered by a valve—simply a flap of cloth. After the sack has been fastened at the top with a wire tie, it is put on a machine bottom side up and the cement, aided by an elaborate mechanism, flows in through a 1-inch tube. When the sack contains just 94 pounds the flow is automatically cut off and the sack drops to a moving belt, which carries it out to the freight car.

He's Home Now.

"I wish I could think of something to keep my husband at home in the evenings," said Mrs. Johnson.

"Give him a motor car," suggested Mrs. Smithson.

"He'd be out more than ever then."

"No, indeed. My husband bought one last week and the doctor says he won't be out for six weeks."

PACKAGES MUST INDICATE WEIGHT

County Sealer Says Many Grocers Violate Law; Fine Provided.

Retail dealers who put up packages of merchandise in advance of sale, in order to save time when there is a rush of trade, are liable to a rather stiff fine, according to W. H. Barr, deputy county sealer of weights and measures, unless the weight of the contents of the container is plainly marked on the outside of the package.

Grocers and coffee and tea dealers are in the habit of preparing a lot of merchandise in package form in advance, such as sugar, coffee, rice and other such commodities, in one, two, five and 10-pound packages. However, the weight of the package is never marked on the outside. This is a violation of the Ohio law having to do with weights and measures.

All goods packed in this manner are called "futures," just the same as canned goods, and must be marked on the package in letters and figures large and plain enough to be easily read. Violation of this law means a fine of not more than $500.

The State Bureau of Weights and Measures does not insist upon the gross, tare and net weight being on such packages, but it does insist on the net weight being marked plainly, even if it is done with a pencil.

Bread when offered for sale is not merely a loaf of bread, but must weigh 12 or 18 ounces until 12 hours after baking.

A campaign is to be inaugurated all over the state, according to Deputy Sealer Barr, to have dealers observe this section of the weights and measures law.

Fights "Cookie Pushers" As U. S. Diplomats.

Hugh Gibson

Hugh Gibson, long in the American diplomatic corps and now U. S. minister to Poland, appearing before the house committee on foreign affairs urged passage of the Rogers bill for reorganization of the diplomatic and consular services. "White spats, tea drinkers and cookie pushers" should be eliminated, he asserted.

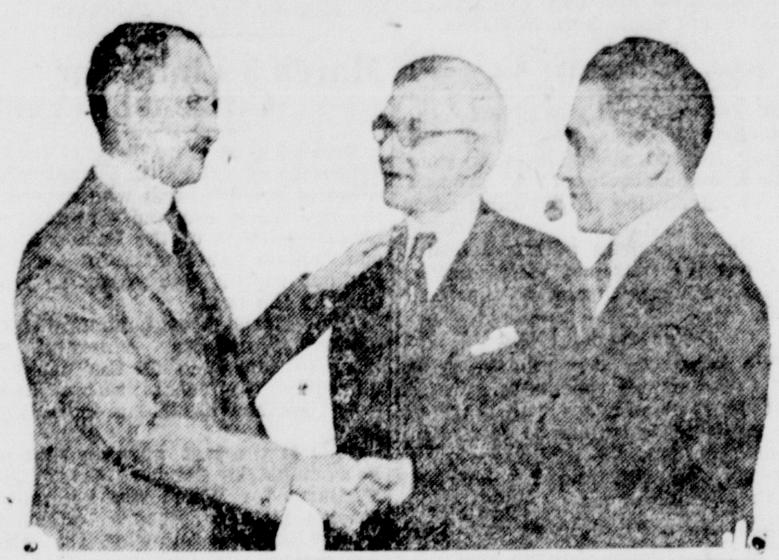
Gives Business To Employes



I C Herman, Fred Smith & Irving S Rossoff

"Making money," says I. C. Herman, multi-millionaire New York piece goods and handkerchief manufacturer, "is like picking up horseshoes. When you have a load you quit. I've got my load and I'm quitting. Any more money would be junk to me." So he called in Irving S. Rossoff and Fred M. Smith, who had worked for him faithfully as sales and production managers, and gave them his firm, which did a business last year of $2,000,000. Mr. Herman is twin brother of Al Woods, famous New York theatrical magnate, whose family name is Herman.

DOPE SEIZED IN RAIDS

found at one of the places but the name of the place was not divulged.

All these will be analyzed by state or federal narcotic inspector. The mayor and city solicitor were attempting to get several federal and state men here for Wednesday, make the tests and be able to help in the prosecution.

With the uncovering of the alleged dope ring police have what they believe the biggest surprise for many years. Hardly a person in the city suspected that illegal traffic in dope was going on, and on the main street.

The police have been working on the cases for weeks, and Monday decided the time was right to spring them. With the affidavits of the girls to back them up they made the raids, fruitful they claim, in that the ring was broken up, and in the trial will try to show the extent of the traffic and the real leaders of the gang.

The two girls will be at the trial and will attempt to identify the three alleged sellers. They will also furnish sensational evidence, it is claimed, that may send the suspects to jail for many years.

It is reported from an authoritative source that young girls and boys of high school age had been taking the dope in the form of cigarets and candy and that the subjects did a "big business" in the traffic.

"SALOMY JANE," PICTURE OF THE GOLDEN WEST, TRIUMPHS

Scoring an emphatic hit savoring of a triumph, Paramount's picturization of Bret Harte's famous story, "Salomy Jane," will be at the Royal theater tomorrow. Jacqueline Logan, George Fawcett and Maurice Flynn, the featured players, contributed much by their artistry to make the presentation the success it proved to be.

It seems like carrying coals to Newcastle to tell the story of "Salomy Jane's Kiss," upon which the picture is based. Salomy Jane is a delightful mountain character as portrayed by Jacqueline Logan. When the stage, driven by Yuba Bill, a part excellently personated by Mr. Fawcett, is robbed and the stranger (Maurice Flynn) is arrested for the crime, the action becomes tense and spirited. 8h

LITERALLY DRESSED TO KILL

Warriors of Old Were Dandies in Their Costumes, but Famous Fighters in the Field.

The Greeks won the battle of Marathon by a lucky fluke and were dazed at their good fortune, for never before that day had they dared to face the terrible Persians, whose noblemen, formidable warriors, clad themselves in canary yellow silk trousers, embroidered with meandering jade green vines sprayed with blossoms crimson and blue; their pink silk jackets were adorned with appliqued lions and tigers, elephants and rhinoceroses, ostriches and peacocks of the gayest hues; they cased their throats with triple and quadruple necklaces of gold filigree set with every jewel known and their arms in similar bracelets and armlets by the dozen; their fingers were loaded with rings; their turbans blazed with jeweled aigrettes; the hilts and scabbards of their scimitars were encrusted with diamonds, emeralds and rubies; yet they were always ready to wade ankle deep in gore or knee in mud, at any crisis of battle or match.

The traditions of such fashions have, in many years of the world, lasted almost or even to our days. The boyars of Muscovy, the princes of Poland, the magnates of Hungary upholstered themselves with wadded coats sewed all over with seed pearls, such as the famous diamond-encrusted heirloom coat of the Esterhazy family, which, according as one tale or the other turns out to be true, was either successfully hidden from Bela Kun and his communists or treacherously betrayed to them and by them scissored into salable snippets.—Exchange.

COOK AND BE INDEPENDENT

That Is Practically the Advice That Writer in Western Newspaper Gives to Men.

Man, left to his own devices when his wife goes on a summer vacation, is inclined to be a little wild. He makes an evening meal of such an unholy combination as sardines and crackers and onions from the backyard garden; so we learn from a suburban married friend who is occasionally left to his own devices.

The unbalanced ration makes its grisly appearance at once as soon as the thoughtful care of the guardian of the household is withdrawn.

If summer vacations lasted very long, to what state of wretched malnutrition would home-staying man be reduced, removed as he may be from the life-saving station of a fair-to-middling restaurant for morning and evening sustenance?

Breakfast and supper out of a box, in many instances. Why should not man add to his accomplishments in sports the art of simple cooking? That also is a sport if practiced only on occasion.

The more complex, of course, the sportier. Amateurs have been known who did not hesitate at lemon jelly cake however much those invited to share it may have. And what a victory to achieve a really edible one! It is really as inspiring as a triumph in golf or tennis.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Romance Gone From Gold Fields.

Gold stampedes have lost their romantic trappings. An honest-to-goodness stampede after real gold has just taken place in Batavia and Kameelboom district, South Africa.

There were no six-guns, such as distinguished the mushing for precious metal in the western states and Australia. Boots, spurs, liquor, gambling paraphernalia have gone by the boards.

None of those once necessary adjuncts to the proper staking of a claim remain essential. Stampeders of 1928 traveled in automobiles and motorcycles.

Within two hours of the time the first stake was planted the field had been entirely covered. The show was over and nobody was killed.

The new field is confidently expected to produce gold, but the least observing can see that it will never produce a Bret Harte.

African Grapes Sent Here.

Dried black grapes are being produced in South Africa at the present time solely for the purpose of supplying the requirements of the American market, the growers hoping for a minimum price of from 10 to 11 cents per pound delivered in New York, Consul Charles J. Pisar, Cape Town, informs the Department of Commerce. According to South African authorities the 1922 crop of dried black grapes amounted to 850 tons, while the growers hope for an estimated yield of 1,300 tons this year. It is said that the shippers of these grapes are going to the utmost trouble in order to have the very best possible quality produced, and there seems no doubt that the quality of this season's output shows a marked improvement over the output of last year.

Canadian Farm Lands.

The average value of occupied farm lands in Canada for the year 1922 is $44 an acre, according to a report issued by the Dominion bureau of statistics. This included improved and unimproved land together with houses, barns and other buildings on the farms. The average value in 1921 was $40 an acre, while it was $48 in 1920 and $35 in 1915. Average values are higher in British Columbia, where the figure is given as $120 an acre. The other provinces vary from $64 in Ontario to $24 in Alberta.

LENINE DIES

ruled before he came into authority as head of the Russian government in November 1917.

Colleague Is Ill

Lenine's death came at a time when his colleague, Leon Trotzky as spectacular a figure as himself, was ill and at war with the central executive committee of the Communist party. Disease and death thus removes from the arena two of the most active figures that set the red flag flying over Russia.

Specialists had been summoned from Germany from time to time. They succeeded in prolonging Lenine's life but could not save it. During most of the time he was ill he lived in a modest villa on his country estate outside of Moscow attended daily by his wife.

Members of the peoples' council of commissaries (the government of the federal Socialist soviets) visited him at intervals for counsel. Sick or well Lenine remained the idol of the Russian Communists.

At the last meeting of the executives of the All-Russian Communist party, which ended only last week, a resolution was adopted that Russian youths should be compelled to study the political teachings of Lenine as the basis for the future government of Russia.

Lenine was married but had no family. He was the author of many books upon Communism and Socialism.

Many attempts were made upon Lenine's life but he escaped them all to die a natural death, peacefully in bed.

Cleveland Arrests Break Up Gigantic Liquor Conspiracy

Cleveland, Jan. 22.—With David Gray Hayman of Cleveland, and two Philadelphia men at liberty under bond, federal officials were seeking three others in an alleged gigantic liquor conspiracy said to have for its object the flooding of northern Ohio with Scotch whisky and grain alcohol, smuggled through ports on the Atlantic coast and then taken inland.

Hayman, it was testified, had leased space in the rear of his store for the sale of the liquor, and had promised that the rum runners would be immune from arrest, inasmuch as he had been sworn in as a deputy sheriff. His badge was taken from him.

COMEBACK STAGED BY JACK BRITTON

Canton, Jan. 22. — Displaying his old-time form, Jack Britton, former welterweight champion completely outclassed Fred Archer, English welterweight champion, in a 10-round bout here Monday night. Archer, making his first ring appearance in this country, displayed much aggressiveness, but was given little opportunity to punch Britton.

Britton, who is seeking a return match with the champion, Mickey Walker, tried hard for a knockout in the fifth and sixth rounds. He batted the Englishman to the ropes, where he showered him with blows but Archer weathered the storm.

Strange Companions.

A correspondent at Sydney, N. S. W., sends the following strange story:

More than three years ago a tortoise crawled into the grounds of Marengo Chase, Morpeth, New South Wales, the residence of Capt. D. J. Marshall. At the same time a bat appeared. The tortoise and the bat were friends, and their association caused much amusement. After wandering about the grounds for three months, the tortoise left, followed by the bat.

Neither the tortoise nor the bat was seen again for three years, but recently Captain Marshall was astonished by the reappearance in his grounds of the tortoise and the bat. During their absence they had made a new friend—a magpie, and the queer trio now live in amity.

FRENCH TOWNS LACK PHONES

Many Rural Centers Are Without Them Owing to the Scarcity of Money.

"An American is readily excused if he comments on the inferiority of the French telephonic system, when he compares it with that of his country," declared M. Paul Laffont, French postmaster general, in a recent interview for the New York Herald.

"More than a third of the villages and the smaller towns of France," M. Laffont continued, "cannot be reached by telephone because they have none. Those that have—and quite large towns at that—can be reached only after hours of waiting, and sometimes not at all. With certain cities abroad, such as Vienna and Lisbon, there is no means of getting into communication, because no lines run from them to any town in France."

This condition the postmaster general attributed to lack of funds for telephone development. The government, which owns and operates the telephone system in France, he explained, has had to devote the greater part of its budget since 1871 to "the reconstruction of the devastation of war and defensive preparation against further devastation."

The French government has therefore been able to allot only a small percentage of its total budget for telephone improvements; and as M. Laffont significantly remarked: "In France it must be remembered that there are no private telephone and telegraph companies."

BRITAIN SENDING NEW AMBASSADOR

SIR ESME HOWARD, OF FAMOUS FAMILY, NAMED TO SUCCEED SIR AUCKLAND GEDDES.

By EDWARD B. CLARK

Washington.—Great Britain soon is to be represented at Washington by a newly appointed ambassador, the Right Hon. Sir Esme Howard, P. C., K. C. B., K. C. M. G. Sir Esme at this writing is the British ambassador to the Court of Spain.

Sir Auckland Geddes, who has been ambassador to the United States since the retirement of Lord Reading, has been compelled to give over his duties because of failing eyesight. Sir Auckland is a comparatively young man, and until recently it was supposed that he would continue to hold high rank in the British diplomatic corps for many years to come, but he went to the front in France during the war and suffered during a German gas attack, the effects of which were such as to threaten blindness, and he has been compelled to retire.

The British ambassador to the United States always holds a first place socially and diplomatically in the capital, even if he does not happen to be the ranking ambassador, for men in the ambassadorial corps take rank according to the date of their appointment.

Some Former British Ambassadors.

James Bryce, a deep student of American affairs, and a writer of high standing on subjects concerning our democratic institutions, was for a long time the British ambassador in Washington. He was one of the most popular men who ever served any country in the capital. He not only studied American institutions, but he studied our home life and he particularly was interested in the capital city. He wrote of its building plans, and of its architectural and landscape beauties. He was as fond of writing of American matters as was and still is his colleague in the corps, J. J. Jusserand, the ambassador of France.

Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, now dead, followed James Bryce in the British embassy at Washington. He was a close friend of Theodore Roosevelt long before the colonel had become president, and long before the baron had become ambassador.

Sir Cecil Spring-Rice was succeeded in Washington by Lord Reading, the great English jurist who now is viceroy of India. He was the first Jew ever appointed by Great Britain to the ambassadorial post in the United States. That religion does not enter into British appointments is shown perhaps not only by the Reading appointment but by that of Sir Esme Howard, who is of an old Roman Catholic family of which the duke of Norfolk is the head.

Lord Reading is said to be one of the greatest lawyers which England ever produced. He never had had any diplomatic experience prior to the time that he was sent to Washington, and he made something of a record here, not only officially but by sheer force of his personality. He had a keen sense of humor.

Fearlessness of the Readings.

The writer of this when he was in the army during the war was ordered to France on the Mauretania, which then was being used as a transport. Lord Reading had been summoned back to England for a conference and was a passenger on the steamship and with him was his wife. The Mauretania, being a fast ship, went unescorted. Lady Reading was accompanied by her maid and the two were the only women passengers on the great ship which carried about 6,000 American troops. It was unquestionably a perilous voyage, for the Germans were looking for the big ships, but it was remarked by the American officers on board that Lady Reading, and her maid showed themselves less concerned about danger than any of the other passengers. Lord Reading busied himself making friends with the American soldiers on the transport. He was democratic and unassuming to the last degree.

The British ambassador lives in a house on Connecticut avenue, directly across the street from the Presbyterian church of the Covenant. In the middle of the street in a little triangular plot of land there has been erected a statue to John Witherspoon, a Presbyterian divine and one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. It was Witherspoon who was particularly militant in his attacks on the policies of Great Britain during the days which preceded the American Revolution. In fact it was said that the British desired to get hold of him in order to hang him. Today succeeding British ambassadors look out of their front windows upon the face of the sturdy old gentleman who once called their country all manner of things and meant it.

Not All at 8:22

There is no real uniformity in picture clocks always showing the hands at 8:22, according to a New England addict of curious research, who has come forward with a tabulation to prove his statement. He studied, in all, 1,516 different pictures of clocks in books of reading, in catalogues and from signs hung by jewelers. He found only two in that number with the hands at 8:22 and eighty-eight of them ranged from 8:15 to 8:34, while the remaining 1,426 showed a great variety of time outside of that segment.

2,090,959 FORDS MADE LAST YEAR

Detroit, Jan 22—Final production figures for 1923 just made public by the Ford Motor company, show a total of 2,200,682 Ford products for the year.

Of this number 2,090,959 represents Ford cars, and trucks alone. The output of Fordson tractors totaled 101,898 while 7,825 Lincoln cars as likewise continued to growing a new yearly record.

Every branch of the Ford output showed a decided increase over 1922. In the case of Ford cars and trucks, this amounted to 739,626 or an increase of more than 50 per cent. Reflecting greater demand in both agricultural and industrial fields Fordson tractor production rose from 68,985 in 1922 to 101,898 for the year just ended. Demand for Lincoln cars as likewise continued to grow, 1923 bringing an increase of 2,553 over 1922 wen 5,378 were produced.

In spite of the substantial increase in output during the past year Ford officials say it was impossible to meet dealers requirements during spring and summer months when orders for 350,000 cars and trucks could not be filled.

"Now, John," directed the garage boss, "fix up this flivver for Senator Spug. He is going to campaign in it. So make a thorough examination and see that everything is ready for heavy going. He especially wants extra large mud guards."

"All right, boss," said the helper. "Extra large mud guards he shall have. But—"

How To Keep A Child Healthy

A GENERATION ago parents thought that sickness was a part of a child's life, but we know better now. The secret is in the food the mother allows the child to eat, and in watching that elimination occurs regularly two or three times a day. Mrs. J. Russell of 19,141 Havana Ave., Detroit, Mich., keeps her family of two young children in perfect health with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and Mrs. R. L. Smith of 519 Maple Ave., East Pittsburg, Pa., says her family of three children have never been sick a day since giving them Syrup Pepsin.

A Substitute for Physics

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a scientific compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and suitable aromatics. The formula is on every package. You will find you do not have to force children to take it, and it is much better for them than castor oil, calomel or coal-tar drugs like phenolphthalein even if covered with sugar or chocolate. Syrup Pepsin is mild and gentle in action and your child will have an easy passage without griping or strain. It does not contain narcotics, and you can give it with absolute safety to an infant at the breast.

"Magic" in a Teaspoonful

Every store that sells medicines sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. Give half a teaspoonful to any ailing baby or child at night when you put it to bed and you will find a happy, laughing youngster in the morning. Take Syrup Pepsin yourself when constipated, and give it to any member of the family young or old, for any ailment due to constipation, such as biliousness, headache, lack of appetite, sleeplessness, bad breath, cankers, fever sores, indigestion, and to break up fevers and colds. Stop that first sneeze or sniffle and you will have a healthy winter.

STRUTHERS GIRLS WIN 10 STRAIGHT; WILL MEET SALEM

Struthers, Jan. 22. — Registering their eighth consecutive victory of the season over East Palestine Saturday night by the one-sided score of 45-8, the Struthers High girls will endeavor to run their total to 10 in a row this week when they meet the Boardman and Salem lassies.

The Boardman game will be played here Friday night while the Salem team will be encountered on its own floor Saturday night.

Struthers doesn't expect to experience much trouble from Boardman but the Salem game is regarded as the toughest of the season.

Salem has a veteran team, which includes some of the best known girl players in this vicinity. Like Struthers the Red and Black cagers are undefeated and all their wins have been by decisive scores.

Both teams are blessed with unusually good forwards. Willaman of Salem knows few peers when it comes to ringing up counters, while Troby, Conway and Albrecht of the local team have averaged over four field goals per game. Which is some shooting considering the class of opposition Struthers has played.

Saturday night against East Palestine Troby scored 10 times from the field, while Conway and Albrecht each tossed in three two-pointers.

Baker, Pfau, ooper, Novak, Hetrick, Smith, Creed, Richards, Anderson and Wells have all proved invaluable players and much is expected from them in coming games.

The local girls will spend the week in diligent practice for the Boardman and Salem games, for victories will place Struthers in a position to claim the Northeastern Ohio championship.

THRONGS IN NATIONAL PARKS

Nearly 1,500,000 Persons Visited These Playgrounds During the Season of 1923.

Nearly 1,500,000 persons visited the national parks and monuments, the grand national playgrounds set aside by congress for the benefit and enjoyment of the people, in the 1923 season, according to a statement made by the Interior department. Much rivalry has existed between the various parks as to which would prove the most popular, and the honor goes to Rocky Mountain National park in Colorado, which had a visiting list of 218,000. Yellowstone National park, Wyoming, takes second place with 138,352 visitors, but Yellowstone's record is perhaps the most noteworthy, as the great park does not lie as close to great centers of population and the season lasts for only three months. Yellowstone's nearest rival was Yosemite National park, in California, which had 130,046 visitors. Mt. Rainier National park, Washington, had the greatest increase, jumping from 70,376 visitors in 1922 to 123,708 in 1923. Other parks having more than 100,000 visitors were Platt National park in Oklahoma, with 117,710; Hot Springs National park, Arkansas, with 112,000, and Grand Canyon National park, Arizona, with 102,166. The smallest attendance was at Mt. McKinley National park, Alaska, thirty-four hardy visitors having made trips into the park over the difficult trails with saddle and pack outfits. The national monuments drawing the heaviest attendance were Muir Woods, California, which attracted 91,253, the Petrified Forest, Arizona, 45,475, and the Scotts Bluff National Monument, Nebraska, 20,000.

Too Sick to Care.

Mother, father and Willie were in midchannel. It was rather rough. Father did not feel too well, neither did mother, and mother was also driven to distraction by the mischievous antics of the boy.

Finally she appealed to her husband saying:

"Father, do speak to Willie?"

And in a faint voice the father said "How are you, Willie?"

"SOO" IS BUSIEST OF ALL CANALS

TRAFFIC STREAM THAT PASSES THROUGH THIS GREAT LAKES GATEWAY IS TREMENDOUS.

By EDWARD B. CLARK

Washington.—Inland waterways are demanding more and more insistently the attention of American citizens and their lawmakers. In view of the great projects under way and contemplated, a bulletin on the Sault Ste. Marie canal just issued by the National Geographic society is of especial interest.

"When the locks at Sault Ste. Marie closed down for the winter a few weeks ago because Jack Frost's fingers were getting a firmer and firmer hold on the north country, the world's busiest canal went out of business temporarily," says the bulletin. "Through this narrow gateway that joins the greatest of the Great Lakes to its sisters to the east and south flows for eight months of the year a 'marine parade' of huge vessels that dwarfs traffic streams elsewhere. The 66 million tons of freight sent through in 1922 was something like five times as great as the freight passing through the Panama canal that year, and more than three times as great as that moved through Suez in its best twelvemonth.

"The vast wheat fields of Minnesota, the Dakotas and parts of Canada, and the great iron and copper mines on the shores of Lake Superior are the chief factors that have built up this inland canal's tremendous business. Ore furnishes most of the weight in the year's freight total, but the grain handled is of greater value.

"Jump" of the St. Mary's River.

"The St. Mary's river, which connects Lakes Superior and Huron, has on its banks at the rapids towns named Sault Ste. Marie both in the United States and in Canada, each with a population of about 12,000. Though the name is spelled 'Sault' it is pronounced 'Soo,' and many Americans both in and out of the town have insisted on spelling it as it is pronounced. Letters addressed to 'The Soo, Michigan,' have never failed to reach their destination. The term means 'the jump' or 'tumble' of the St. Mary's.

"The banks of the St. Mary's at the rapids formed the site of a mission and fur trading post in the early days of the French settlement of North America. After the British regime the first lock was built in 1797, a small affair capable of handling only canoes and skiffs. Even this was destroyed by American soldiers during the war of 1812.

"For nearly half a century all freight was taken past the rapids on the American side by portage, first in carts and later on a horse-drawn tramway. The American Sault Ste. Marie's principal business street of today grew up along this old portage just as Broadway grew along the cow path of the New Amsterdamers.

Frontier Color on Saturday.

"Sault Ste. Marie is a typical modern, wide-awake American town through the week, but on Saturdays it takes on a color that proves that it is not yet wholly out of touch with its virile frontier days. Then numerous Indians join its street crowds and everywhere one encounters booted 'lumber-jacks' wearing colored flannel shirts, and if it is cold, generously checked mackinaw jackets.

"Near the Soo, in the Taquamenon river country, among the Ojibway Indians, originated the Hiawatha legend; and each fall redskins gather to enact the delightful story made famous by Longfellow.

"Even though the fall at the Soo is little greater than twenty feet, a large volume of water passes out of Lake Superior and much water power is available. Big hydro-electric plants have been developed on both sides of the river and the towns are of growing importance industrially. While the throaty blare of the whistles on the lake steamers is silent in winter the water wheels still turn and keep woolen and lumber mills, carbide and chemical factories, and numerous small enterprises busy."

MACHINE TO MEASURE HIDES

Recent Invention Solves Serious Problem for Large Users of Leather.

Leather hides are bought by the square foot, but until the comparatively recent invention of a hide-measuring machine the problem of measuring the large numbers of hides that leather houses and large users must handle was a serious problem. The machine that has solved it resembles a clothes mangle, but instead of having a single upper roll, has a row of 64 rollers, each one covering a certain area in making one revolution. The rolls are each connected to a registering mechanism when raised by the hide passing under them. When a roll is let down again to the bottom roller by the hide passing from under it, on the way through the machine, the recording device ceases to register.

The number of revolutions of each roller, in terms of the space it has covered, is automatically totalized on a large dial at the top of the machine.

"Not if they cross the street," said his wife.—Passing Show.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Read How Mrs. Walsh Was Helped by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mannington, West Virginia.—"I took the Vegetable Compound when having the turn of life. I had been sick for seven years. I would get a little better, then I broke down again. It would be hard for me to describe how I was, for I was a perfect wreck. I suffered with a pain in my left side, then I would have numb spells and I would think I couldn't live. I would have hot flashes, then would come weak spells. I was so weak I would think I couldn't ever get a meal ready. My work was a burden to me. I was not able to do my housework half of the time. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has given me strength and health. The hot flashes left me and I got better of the numb spells. That summer I could do my housework and worked in the garden a good bit. I tell all sick women what your wonderful medicine did for me, and will always recommend it. I was born in Marion County and still live in it. I am known to all my neighbors, and you can publish this statement because it is true."—Mrs. JOHN W. WALSH, R.
